

Thoughts on Dillon Danis vs. Logan Paul

The Joe Rogan experience they'll probably do something like they're doing with John like have a supercard but only have to pay out you know one champion So I'm assuming they'll probably do something like that It's funny that you think about that thinking like that until you said that I never considered it Oh yeah that other fight neither one of those guys is a current world champion even though it's for the title they don't get a piece of the pay per view I've been I've been thinking I've been having like a business kind of mindset getting the fighting early early on like thinking about numbers and brand deals and and when I get to this position what I'm gonna ask for at the UFC and because I go and sit down with Hunter and and do our own uh negotiations and stuff and it's fun I enjoy that aspect of fighting I enjoy the business side of it to where a lot of fighters don't They're like here I'll just pay someone to fucking do it do it for me But I've always been excited about that I've always wanted to be the the entrepreneur type stuff Well that's great that you enjoy it because for some fighters it's like a labor you know and they don't do it But if you're excited about it that's awesome because that's definitely a smart thing and you know just the ability to promote just promoting fights Like that is such a factor There's so many guys that are really talented but for whatever reason the public's not captivated by them and so they just never quite hit their potential in terms of like revenue for sure I mean it's crazy now with all the social media guys fighting now and making Bank 1st 2nd 3rd fight is that Dylan Dani's fight off with Logan I saw him tweet fucking him out piece or something But then I seen someone confirm that he had he hadn't he didn't he didn't pull out but that motherfucker he's been calling us since the day where he said there's no way that motherfucker is showing up but he hasn't pulled out yet Well if he doesn't show up how is he making money That's what I was wondering That's what I was wondering I can't take a break uh off Twitter without people thinking I'm pulling out his fucking tweet He's a he's a he's a great troll He is he's doing I mean that's the last time he fought was in Bell tour like when how long ago Probably four or five years ago But for Logan's girl to sue him lawsuits lawyers that shit There's nothing more fucking stressful and frustrating than that going through that stuff And Dylan Pry doesn't have a lot of cheddar So now he's getting sued He has to hire a lawyer and those lawyer bills add the fuck up So I bet he's fucking stressing Look at this He's he's sparring with Alex Berea That's very interesting Yeah Alex being real nice to him Real nice by the way Yeah real nice And you know you're only gonna learn so much in a certain amount of time I mean it's not like Dylan is an absolutely terrible striker but he's not a striker He's an elite grappler who grappling is fucking amazing I mean he's really fucking good on the ground He's sensational That kid has some fucking serious jiu jitsu but it's just he's not known for being a boxer It's like the Ben Askren situation you know Jake Paul offers you more money probably than he made his entire UFC career for a boxing match After you've had a hip replacement You're like fuck it I'm in So he comes in looking like a guy who delivers milk We were there That's crazy