

How to win on social media in 2024 #garyvee #shorts

You need to live it How do you break through by doing so much content for so long that you start to get an understanding of the thematic that work If you think that I woke up one morning and said you know what we're gonna do in fucking August 2023 on my Instagram In this highly competitive environment we're gonna make a meme that captures the essence of the video and we're gonna do a two post carousel because that's gonna get the most organic reach I promise you I had no fucking idea If you think I thought making photos that is a picture of me in it That then says the person that's sending you this thinks and then whatever the fuck we've written was gonna be the consistent million organic reach post When I first posted the first one I'm like this has no shot reps