

Can a job rejection be a good thing? #garyvee #shorts

I just want to tell you something because I feel like I wouldn't be right here right now without you Because two years ago I applied to work that I got rejected the one that that I needed and posting more for myself and then you went and did it I'm so proud like if it wasn't for that I would not I'm so proud of you Good for you I just want to tell you that That's amazing I saw you I was like I literally would not be here without getting rejected that honestly you wouldn't be here without you I'm proud of you Good for you Attention is the number one asset