Summary

The transcript highlights the Hotel Figueroa, a historic hotel in downtown Los Angeles that was funded and managed by women for women in the 1920s. The hotel now offers a special suite called the her suite, which features products from local area businesses owned and operated by women. The Gray Zebra is a vegan restaurant in East Hollywood that focuses on sandwiches and burritos made with local ingredients. The chef at The Gray Zebra has been vegan for 30 years and wanted to create a place that is not necessarily in your face about being vegan. The transcript also mentions the popularity of archery in recent years, influenced by movies like Brave and Tomb Raider. Archery is a safe outdoor sport that gained even more popularity during the COVID-19 pandemic as a socially distanced activity.
