

Andrew Dice Clay Tells the Story Behind The Day the Laughter Died

<https://silosolo.com/711582>

Summary

The speaker met Rick Rubin while getting coffee with a screenplay writer. They worked on five albums together and had a great experience. The speaker thought Rick Rubin was interesting but they sometimes disagreed. The speaker wanted to do a late-night set with no notes and an unsuspecting crowd, which led to the recording of 'The Day the Laughter Died' album.

Silo sample questions

- How did the speaker meet Rick Rubin?
- What did the speaker and Rick Rubin do together?
- What did the speaker think of Rick Rubin?
- What was the speaker's experience recording the album 'Dice Rules'?
- What inspired the speaker to record 'The Day the Laughter Died' album?

Topics

Meeting Rick Rubin

Working on albums together

Recording 'Dice Rules' album

Recording 'The Day the Laughter Died' album

Key Takeaways

- The speaker met Rick Rubin while getting coffee with a screenplay writer named Mark.
- The speaker and Rick Rubin worked on five albums together.
- The speaker thought Rick Rubin was an interesting and talented person, but they sometimes disagreed.
- The speaker had a great experience recording the album 'Dice Rules' with Rick Rubin as the producer.
- The speaker wanted to do a late-night set with no notes and an unsuspecting crowd.

Click here for the full transcript

Click here for the source