Summary

The speaker discusses the concept of detachment, which involves taking a step back and broadening one's field of view to gain a better perspective. Detachment helps individuals see the bigger picture, think more clearly, and make better decisions. The speaker shares a personal experience on an oil rig training mission where he realized the power of detachment by being able to see what needed to be done and make a tactical call. Detachment can be applied in daily life to avoid getting wrapped up in emotions or details, and to make better decisions. While detachment may be more challenging for someone in a solo gunfight, it can be easily applied when working with a team and being the person who takes a step back to gain a broader perspective.
